CHELSEA HANDLER's TV bosses have told her to stop picking on Angelina Jolie – or there will be big trouble!

For years, the sarcastic comic, 38, has publicly ridiculed mom-of-six Angelina mostly out of loyalty to her best friend Jennifer Aniston – but now it could cost her big-time.

The ENQUIRER can reveal that her relentless barbs have gotten out of hand recently, rubbing her bosses the wrong way. Chelsea has not only belittled Angelina's relationship with Brad Pitt and accused the pillow-lipped beauty of undergoing too much plastic surgery, she's also mocked the United Nations goodwill ambassador's humanitarian work.

AND THAT'S APPARENTLY

been too much for Angelina's high-powered showbiz allies at Comcast, which oversees both Universal studios and Handler's "Chelsea Lately" show on the E! Network. So corporate honchos have stepped in to muzzle Chelsea.

"Angelina has a lot of support at the top and they're dying to lock her into a long-term contract," noted a source. "They don't like the fact that Chelsea has really been saying some horrible things about her."

"For starters, she's been accusing Angelina of being a plastic surgery-obsessed phony whose looks are fading

Betty White GETS FRISKY with 'Love Boat' Gavin

BETTY WHITE is proving you're never too old to be a cougar!

A source says that the 91-year-old Emmy winner recently got flirty with her old pal Gavin MacLeod – who's just 82 – when the two reunited to film an in-flight safety video for Air New Zealand. Although it may have been a tongue-in-cheek "pass," the spunky senior even invited her former "Mary Tyler Moore Show" cast mate to join the "mile-high club" with her.

According to the source, when Gavin reminded Betty about his longtime wife, Patti, she quipped: "That's your problem. I don't have a lot of time and you have a sweet ass!"

The source added that Betty was so excited while waiting for longtime friend Gavin – who also starred as the "Love Boat" captain – to arrive on the set, she had goose bumps. When Gavin finally got there, the two hugged, filmed a few takes – and then Betty made her move.

"They were sitting next to each other, laughing about something funny that happened in the old days and then, out of nowhere, Betty reached over and put her hand on Gavin's knee," said the source.

Then, the longtime funnygal "began stroking Gavin's cheek and leaned in to kiss him. Gavin tried to get away, but Betty grabbed his arm and yanked him back toward her."

“SHE COOED, ‘COME ON, GAVIN, DON’T BE COY. You’ve been hot for me for 40 years. Well, now’s your chance. Ever hear of the ‘mile-high club’? We’re looking for new members!”

Fortunately, the director broke up the encounter when he called them back to finish taping.

"When the shoot was over, Gavin couldn't wait to scoot off," the source revealed. "But Betty had the last word. She winked at him and said, 'Take care of yourself, hot stuff!'"

TV BOSSES WARN CHELSEA HANDLER: LAY OFF ANGIE - OR ELSE!

Jolie's pals silence Jen's fast. Chelsea also believes Angelina found the way to Brad's heart through kinky sex, and that's the only reason she was able to 'steal' him from Jennifer.

"But perhaps worst of all, Chelsea has dismissed all of Angelina's humanitarian work, saying that she's only involved with good causes because it helps her image."

THOSE HOSTILITIES HAVE APPARENTLY TESTED the patience of the corporate honchos, who are rallying around their darling.

"Universal wants to create a home for Angelina, and that means she can't have any hostility coming her way from other employees, including Chelsea," explained the source. "That's why they read her the riot act."

Handler's hatred of Jolie began after the "Tomb Raider" sexpot was accused of seducing Brad Pitt on the set of "Mr. & Mrs. Smith" in 2004, when he was still married to Aniston. In March of this year, Chelsea called Jolie "a demon" on Bravo's "Watch What Happens Live." And in previous years, she's given interviews blasting Angelina as "a homewrecker" and other things not fit to print.

But now, Chelsea has apparently accepted the fact that she needs to tone down her act.

"Chelsea's not happy about it," said the source, "but she's been banned from spewing any more anti-Jolie gags, at least for the next couple of months."

Sofia Vergara's A PHONY, rages Charo

THERE'S a red-hot war of words erupting between sexy "Modern Family" star Sofia Vergara and original Latin bombshell Charo. The Spanish spitfire recently slammed Sofia, blasting her performance on the Emmy-winning show, calling her a phony, a Lucille Ball wannabe and "Charo with diarrhea"!

"Charo says that many people in Spanish-speaking countries think Sofia's annoying accent is not only obviously fake, but it's insulting and degrading," said a source. "She later explained that she was only saying out loud what everyone in Latin America has been thinking."

"MEANWHILE, SOFIA SAYS CHARO NEEDS TO GET A LIFE and stop being so jealous of other Latinas who have successful careers."

Charo, 62, is an accomplished actress and musician who's perhaps best-known for her sexy wiggle, her

"cuchi-cuchi" catchphrase, and her appearances on "The Love Boat." Ironically, Sofia, 41, grew up watching Charo on TV and was a big fan – but that didn't stop her from responding to the verbal attack.

"Of course she doesn't like it," said Sofia, who plays Gloria Delgado-Pritchett on the hit ABC sitcom. "No one likes being compared with someone else, especially someone younger."

Despite the feud, Sofia has high hopes that they'll be able to put it behind them.

"She has been telling friends that she forgives Charo and hopes that the feeling is mutual," added the source. "In fact, she thinks it would be a blast if the 'Modern Family' producers cast Charo as one of her wacky Colombian relatives on the show – an elderly family member, of course!"

Sandra Bullock's SHOCKING CONFESSION:

I DON'T NEED A MAN!

SANDRA BULLOCK says that her late mother, Helga, taught her she doesn't need a man in her life – and she's taken that lesson to heart.

The revelation came in a recent interview with a British newspaper – and sources say it may be a sign that the unlucky-in-love actress is ready to stop looking for a partner to help her raise her 3-year-old son, Louis.

"My mother raised me not to depend on a man for anything," she said in the interview. But, she admitted: "I may have taken that to extremes."

AS THE ENQUIRER RECENTLY reported, it looked like romance was brewing between Sandra and her "Gravity" co-star George Clooney as they promoted the film in Europe over the summer. But now George reportedly has a new young girlfriend, and Sandra insists she and the hunk are just friends.

"Sandra may be saying she's

learned the hard way that she can't depend on the men in her life," a source told The ENQUIRER. "As she closes in on age 50, the strength of her strong-willed mother may enable her to do without a man."

Sandra's mom was a German opera singer and voice teacher who died of colon cancer in 2000 at the age of 63.

"Sandra is no doubt still inspired by her mom," said the source. "And she may now believe that despite being lonely at times, it's better than the alternative, which is having your heart broken. She doesn't want to go through that kind of pain again."

Just days after winning an Oscar for "The Blind Side" in March 2010, Sandra learned that her husband of nearly five years, badboy biker Jesse James, had been cheating on her. Sandra filed for divorce soon after.

Now 49, Sandra is one of Hollywood's highest-paid actresses. But she says she's choosing her son over a lot of work these days.

"I had prepared for this part of my life to be filled with things which do not involve a camera," she explained. "So I am blessed with more opportunities, but I am going to be taking fewer of them."

KATIE HOLMES is in a forbidden romance with a close pal of ex-hubby Tom Cruise, and she's desperate to keep it secret, says a source.

The stunning single mom, 34, has been hot for Oscar winner Jamie Foxx, 45, for months, and he regularly spends the night at Katie's New York home, the source adds.

Tom – who co-starred with Foxx in the 2004 thriller "Collateral" – apparently has no clue, and Katie is said to be determined to keep it that way.

"Neither Katie nor Jamie want this affair out in the open," revealed an insider, who's familiar with intimate details of the fling.

"Jamie wants to keep it quiet because he's credited Tom with launching his movie career when they co-starred in 'Collateral,' and Tom would consider it a betrayal of their friendship.

Katie and Jamie dismissed reports they were dating after being spotted holding hands and dancing at the Apollo in the Hamptons benefit in East Hampton, N.Y., on Aug. 24. And Katie's reps recently told The ENQUIRER that "they are friends, nothing more." Jamie's reps didn't respond when we asked for comment on Oct. 11, but a day later he was photographed out and about with a girlfriend and his young daughter Annalise.

SHE'S HIDING FROM TOM

While their busy schedules prevent them from being together 24/7, the two are constantly in contact, said the source.

Insiders say Katie's new romance will devastate Tom, who considers Jamie an honorary uncle to 7-year-old Suri.

The two actors became close after Tom pushed Jamie to be cast as his co-star in the 2004 thriller "Collateral." Along with that break, Jamie also credited Tom for helping him win a Best Actor Oscar for playing music legend Ray Charles in "Ray."

CANCER KID LIVES OUT HIS DREAMS!

Cops & firefighters RALLY AROUND BRAVE NATHAN, 6

WHEN Dawn Norman asked her son Nathan what he'd like for Christmas last year, the brave 6-year-old brain cancer patient said he'd like to get cards and letters from firefighters and police officers – the people he calls "his heroes."

After word got out about his request, Nathan got cards – hundreds and hundreds of them from police stations and fire departments all across America. But that's just the tip of the iceberg.

Nathan's spirit and courageous fight against his deadly disease inspired first responders from all over to rally in support of him. In one astonishing torrent of love right before Christmas, more than 250 police officers from 85 police departments in Massachusetts drove 12 hours to Nathan's home in Rustburg, Va., in a 100-cruiser convoy to pay him a visit.

When they arrived, they gave him a miniature police cruiser they'd made, and then all 250 officers lined up in uniform – and let little Nathan give them commands.

"The outpouring of support we have gotten from so many people means so much to us," said Nathan's mom, Dawn. "It helps give us the strength to get through each day."

NATHAN WAS FIRST DIAGNOSED with brain cancer in January 2009.

Doctors were only able to remove about half of his tumor. He began chemotherapy, but by October 2011, the cancer had spread to his spinal cord, where doctors found an inoperable tumor. He's currently undergoing more chemotherapy.

"It will not get rid of the cancer," said Dawn.

"It's just to try and buy time."

Sadly, Dawn and her husband Bobby, who have three other children – Sarah, 10, Matthew, 7, and Tabitha, 3 – know the cancer will eventually claim their beloved little boy.

"It's inevitable," said Bobby. "Unless

Nathan and mom Dawn

The brave little boy says police officers and firefighters are his heroes

Maryland firefighters gave Nathan and his family a ride on a fire truck

there is a miracle, Nathan will die."

Despite the grim prognosis, Nathan's spirit continues to inspire everyone around him. Through his own suffering, the plucky kid still likes to make little gifts for other cancer-stricken children he sees when he goes to Duke University for his chemotherapy treatments.

"Nathan is such a brave warrior. He has taught me so much through his love, strength and faith," said Dawn.

Nathan's Christmas wish eventually snowballed into an astounding 2,000 cards a day. And along with the Massachusetts convoy of cops, he has also had visits from the FBI, CIA, the U.S. Marshals Service, the U.S. Border Patrol – who made him an honorary agent – and even the Secret Service, which arranged for Nathan to ride in a limousine behind President Obama at his inauguration in Washington, D.C., in January.

"Some people say that Nathan is dying. He's not," said Dawn. "He's living each day to the fullest."

Cards for Nathan may be sent to: Nathan Norman, 81 Dunivan Drive, Rustburg, Va. 24588.

November 20, 1947
PRINCESS ELIZABETH WEDS
PHILIP MOUNTBATTEN

Princess Elizabeth's wedding was held at the end of the Second War. Due to austerity measures, the Princess had to save money to buy the materials for the dress. The dress, designed by Givenchy designer, Normal Hartnell, who just four years later gave her a Coronation gown, designed her a tulle veil for a beauty-making competition. A 13-foot long train, symbolic of birth and death after the wedding, inspired by a Galleria, Hartnell used the long train and the white crystals and pearls. However, due to wartime restrictions, pearls were not available to buy. He eventually had to use twenty round pearls from the United States, and said "I had to create, in my own words, the most beautiful dress I had made."

GOSSIP

with MIKE WALKER

 @IMwalker gossip

Hot on the heels of pics that show him lighting up what looked like a huge joint at a party (although some reports allege the photo was doctored), girlie-man/badboy JUSTIN BIEBER reacted badly to a stern warning from execs of his upcoming movie documentary, "Believe," who told him: Stay the hell out of TROUBLE! "Huge money's on the line because his last film, 'Never Say Never' earned upward of $100 million," said an insider. "That's why director JON M. CHU and manager SCOOTER BRAUN had a sit-down with Justin and laid down the ground rules: No speeding, no spitting, no screaming threats at paparazzi, fans or neighbors, no puffing on funny cigarettes – and absolutely NO problems with police!" The Bieb's reaction? "Justin's headstrong and never likes being told what to do, so his first reaction was to remind everyone that without him, they wouldn't have a movie to release," said the source. "Then he started ranting and raving that he's tired of people bossing him and calling the shots – so he won't be taking orders from anyone!" OMFG! Stay tuned.

There are people who think ALEC BALDWIN actually invented Twitter after all his headline-making adventures on the wild-and-woolly social media site – but now there's a new Baldwin tweeting provocatively in the grand family tradition: Alec's statuesque, breathtakingly beautiful model daughter IRELAND, who at sweet 17 stands 6-foot-2 inches tall! Sweet li'l Ireland just tweeted a sexy selfie of her licking (uh, huh!) the six-pack abs of her insanely ripped boyfriend, the magnificently-named SLATER TROUT (uh, huh!), a professional paddleboarding champ. Here's the kicker: The Twitter-Baldwin connection just got stronger – Ireland and her hunky swain actually met on Twitter, and she's identified on her Twitter page as "wife of @slatertrout." WOW!

Miley's stunning 'SNL' triumph – Grrrl's MUCH smarter than she looks!

"SNL" LOVES SMILEY MILEY! In the smartest, swiftest PR switch in showbiz history, crazy-like-a-fox MILEY CYRUS transformed her image from twerky-jerky-nutty-slutty pop tart to diva extraordinaire with her incredible tour de force performance as singer/actor/comedienne on "Saturday Night Live" – AND made everyone, from stars to stagehands, fall in love with her! Said My SNL Spy: "Everyone expected Miley to show up with major attitude – but were stunned when she turned out to be a sweetheart! She went out of her way to be kind to everyone – just plain old nice – posing for pictures and signing autographs for the backstage crew. And even though she's just about the most famous person on the planet, she was totally down to earth throughout long days of meetings, rehearsals and performances with the 'SNL' stars, and NEVER displayed an ounce of attitude. In fact, LORNE MICHAELS commented that Miley's probably the most un-diva performer who's ever done the show!" So what's her secret? Rhymes with "twerk," folks! (NO, not "jerk"...WORK!)

"HERE'S ONE YOU WON'T BELIEVE...!"

Harrison Ford dishes on a British TV show about the first time he met fellow guest and "Sherlock" star Benedict Cumberbatch.

So Ireland Baldwin is now...Ireland Trout?!

WHO KNEW?? Got quite a surprise when a pal phoned and told me: "Google Wikipedia and MIKE WALKER." So I did – and was gob-smacked to learn that, according to the online encyclopedia, I am the world's most famous Mike Walker!

My name tops a long list of renowned dudes with my common-as-dirt moniker. I'm listed as, "(columnist), gossip columnist for The National Enquirer." I'm followed by such pretenders to my throne as "Mike Walker, jazz guitarist," "Mike Walker, American football player," "Mike Walker, country music artist," etc. What can I tell ya, folks... "HEY, we're Number One...we're Number One...!"

PLUG FOR JUSTIN TIMBERLAKE: Yo, dude – your new hair plugs look GREAT! (What? That's supposed to be a secret? Sorry.) Anyway, Justin's always kept his hair cropped short, juggling various hats and caps to cover up his thinning thatch, reports a pal, "because he's been very self-conscious about his receding hairline – so a few months before he began shooting his new movie 'Runner Runner,' he underwent a series of hair plug transplants." The treatments worked great (check it out, fans!) and after years of sensitivity about his thinning locks, the 32-year-old star totally loves that he can now sport contemporary hair styles and quit covering up.

I quit being a GEORGE CLOONEY fanboy when he stupidly blamed "the paparazzi" for PRINCESS DIANA's death at the hands of a drunken chauffeur, but I fairly report all the news you really need to know, so hear this: The reason you don't see Clooney parading around TV talk shows promoting his blockbuster flick "Gravity" is because Mr. Nice Guy doesn't want to steal the spotlight from co-star SANDRA BULLOCK. Said a close Clooney pal: "The buzz around Hollywood is that Sandra's a shoo-in for another Best Actress Oscar nomination, and George wants everyone to know that 'Gravity' is a Sandra Bullock movie... not a George Clooney movie! He's told execs he's happy to promote the film...but only with Sandra by his side." Okay, I'm almost liking the guy again for that, but...!

...let's just take a peek at Clooney's sly, sneaky side: Now that he's dumped longtime galpal STACY KEIBLER, George's been getting cozy with leggy Croatian model MONIKA JAKISIC, but he's still auditioning – literally! My Advertising Spy reports that the newly single hunk, who needs two sexy co-stars for TV commercials he'll shoot for Nespresso coffee machines, hand-picked a dozen gorgeous candidates from 100-plus audition tapes – but only after asking one crystal-clear question about each: "Is she single?" (And what's wrong with that, Mike, you're asking? Are you kidding me?? Pity those poor, defenseless girls!)

As a gossip columnist "out for blood" (pardon the sneaky plug for my new novel "Out For Blood: Private Diary Of A Gossip Vampire"), I hear every nasty whisper about every famous person, whether true or false, but there's one genuine nice guy I've never, ever heard

"Spielberg wouldn't leave until every single student's question had been answered," said a source. "He's a real hero to those youngsters! Brosnan's WEIGHT WAR WITH WIFE

How hunk stays slim despite Keely's GUT-BUSTING MEALS

PIERCE BROSnan is desperately trying to keep his lean, leading man figure, but his and his curvy wife's love of all things fattening is making it tough for the former 007 star.

Despite the fact that the handsome Irish actor turned 60 in May, he's still being cast opposite much younger actresses. For example, in his latest film, "How to Make Love Like an Englishman," he romances both 47-year-old Salma Hayek AND 32-year-old Jessica Alba.

"Pierce is still considered a heartthrob, so he knows the importance of keeping fit," said a longtime friend. "And while he used to have no trouble working out and cutting back on the carbs when it was time to shape up, it's harder than ever now because he's getting older."

And his plus-size wife Keely Shaye

DAY!

Smith is no ally in his battle against the bulge.

"They both love to eat good food and drink great wines," noted the source.

The source says that while Pierce strives to stay hunky, his 50-year-old wife isn't into counting calories.

"Keely used to worry that she was 50 pounds overweight," said the source. "But as she's gotten older, she no longer stresses over her curves. And since Pierce says he loves her just the way she is, she feels comfortable embracing her size."

"Keely loves to cook pastas and serve up sandwiches on a crisp baguette, and she and Pierce enjoy comfort foods like fish and chips, and casseroles. They also adore good wine and they drink a bottle or more together almost every night.

"And while Pierce does his best to exercise daily, Keely is happy to sit at home on the beach, work on her writing and care for the kids."

Pierce, who's 6-foot-1 and an estimated 195 pounds, hates going to the gym. So he's come up with his own diet and fitness plan to keep his weight in check.

"PIERCE DOES SOMETHING DIFFERENT EVERY DAY," the source revealed. "On a Monday he might run and kickbox, then on a Tuesday he might take a hike with one of the dogs. On Wednesday, it's a game of tennis with one of his pals and a swim in the pool, and another day it might be a bike ride or some

"The fact that Pierce and his wife love to eat, and his wife loves to feed him, makes his job of keeping fabulously fit that much harder," the source added. "But he's determined to keep moving so he can stay slim and sexy."

Disgraced football star's latest scheme: THE CHURCH OF O.J.!

AFTER nearly five years in a Nevada prison, disgraced football great O.J. Simpson has found God and is planning to become a evangelist, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

"O.J. is very religious now, and he's been counseling other inmates with Bible studies for months," his manager Norman Pardo told The ENQUIRER.

"When I talk to him on the phone, all he wants to discuss is religion. He's obsessed!"

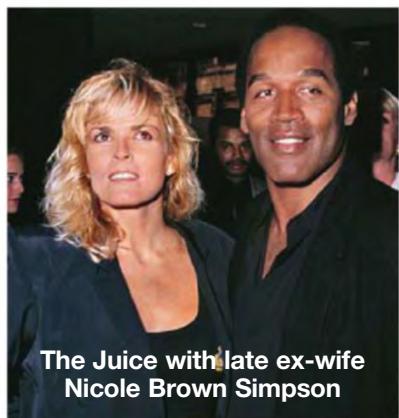

The 66-year-old felon has been in the Lovelock Correctional Center since December 2008 on an armed robbery and kidnapping conviction. But behind bars, pals say Simpson claims he's cleaned up his act and is focused on launching a worldwide crusade called "Holy Safari."

"O.J. WILL TELL YOU THAT HE wants to bring people together, but that's BS as far as I'm concerned," said an insider. "There's a lot of people sending bucket-loads of money to these TV preachers, and O.J.'s just looking to rake in millions from poor, unsuspecting Christians.

"It's a dangerous idea to think of Simpson as a self-styled prophet who can reach people all over the world." But O.J. has been spurred on by watching televangelist Frederick Price, whose "Ever Increasing Faith" ministries broadcasts reach more than 15 million followers each week.

Caged Simpson finds God — AND PLANS NEW LIFE AS TV EVANGELIST

"If he can do it, so can I," a source said O.J. proclaimed.

And he might just get the chance. O.J., who's not eligible for parole until 2017, has petitioned the court for a new trial. His people now say they've gotten word that the judge is going to rule in his favor and let him out.

"O.J. expects to be out by Christmas," revealed a close source.

Meanwhile, Pardo says he's already negotiating with religious TV networks to carry O.J.'s crusade. They've even designed a "Holy Safari" promotional poster, showing Simpson dressed in white with outstretched arms. In the center of the image is a large shining cross.

To kick-start O.J.'s new life, a company called Sailors Brothers Entertainment is working with him and Pardo to produce a documentary about Simpson based on taped interviews.

Kenny Sailors, director of the documentary, told The ENQUIRER: "O.J. has rediscovered his faith and we're interested in working with him. We've come to the conclusion that prison has actually set him free."

Incredibly, O.J. believes he'll be welcomed into households even though many people still believe he murdered his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ron Goldman.

Preacher Frederick Price inspired O.J.

But another source told The ENQUIRER: "People have to remember that this is a man who coldheartedly slaughtered two human beings and got away with it. The idea of him being any kind of preacher is ridiculous. Unfortunately, he could pull it off because he's got an ego the size of the Brooklyn Bridge and there's a sucker born every minute."

DIRTY DOG'S AT IT AGAIN!

OWEN TWO-TIMES PREGNANT LOVER

DIRTY dog Owen Wilson is already cheating on his baby mama!

As The ENQUIRER recently reported, the "Wedding Crashers" star knocked up his 41-year-old married fitness trainer — and now we've caught him locking lips with a knockout brunette!

The mystery woman shared an intimate dinner with Wilson and then spent the night at the 44-year-old actor's home, according to an eyewitness.

Our blockbuster exclusive photos show the couple laughing over their meal

The actor spent the evening with a long-haired beauty at Santa Monica restaurant Rustic Canyon and then kissing on the street.

"Owen met the woman for dinner on Oct. 8 at a popular Santa Monica restaurant called Rustic Canyon on Wilshire Boulevard," a photographer who snapped the pair told The ENQUIRER.

"She was already there waiting when Owen arrived.

"They ate dinner, laughing and having a great time, before leaving about 90 minutes later.

"THEY WALKED OUT together, and Owen suddenly swooped in for an open-mouth kiss. He held her tight while they locked lips for a good 20 seconds."

The woman climbed into her car, an older Nissan with an out-of-state license plate, and followed Wilson back to his place, said the cameraman.

"She didn't come out until morning, eating a banana," the photographer added.

"Then she drove back to her apartment in Hollywood."

The overnight date may shock Owen's latest baby mama, Swedish-born beauty Caroline Lindqvist, who's expecting his son in January.

As The ENQUIRER reported, Caroline is getting a divorce from her hubby, Owen is already a dad to son Robert Ford Wilson, 2, with ex-girlfriend Jade Duell.

The screen hunk met Caroline when he hired her as his personal trainer. Caroline now works in real estate in Malibu.

Their friendship evolved into regular sexual romps, said a family friend, and both are reportedly thrilled that they're expecting a son together.

But, an insider added: "Now that Owen's had his hands on another woman, Caroline might not want him to be so 'hands on' with her!"

HOW DO WE HANDLE AGGRESSIVE PUPPY?

Q. We have a 9-week-old German shepherd puppy who is incredibly sweet but headstrong. He plays too hard and sometimes bites us, especially around mealtime. We spoke to our vet about his behavior. She said he needs proper training and socialization. We agree, but he's only had his first set of vaccines. In order to go to obedience classes, they say he should have all of them. By that time he'll be four months old. What should we do?

A. Allowing his behavior to go on will result in a dog that is totally unacceptable and maybe even a liability. There are many excellent dog trainers who will come to your home to work with you and the pup until he's old enough for the class. If you can't find one, you may have to take a chance on the class. So long as the other dogs are vaccinated, the risk of him catching a contagious disease is relatively low. Enroll him immediately if possible and follow up with the necessary training at home. If his behavior is not improved by 12 weeks of age, it may never change.

IS MY CAT CRAZY, OR WHAT?

Q. Sometimes my cat seems like a real nutcase. Often, when I walk near him, he'll pounce on my feet then go careening off the walls. What can I do about him?

A. Fortunately, this behavior is overactive play rather than aggression. It shouldn't be punished and, besides, disciplining a cat doesn't work anyway. Try to redirect his energy by playing with him, using an appropriate toy on the end of a pole or string. Cats love them, and the toys will help him burn off excess energy before you attempt a quiet petting session. Even as a kitten, your cat should not view you as a plaything. For example, wrestling barehanded with your cat or kitten sets a bad precedent.

BOMBSHELL NEW EVIDENCE REVEALED AFTER 50 YEARS

THIS MAN KILLED

LEE HARVEY OSWALD did NOT act alone – and The ENQUIRER can finally name the second gunman who fired the fatal shot at President John F. Kennedy from the grassy knoll in Dallas 50 years ago!

In a blockbuster exclusive, The ENQUIRER has learned that a Cuban exile with ties to both the Mafia and the CIA confessed to being involved in a conspiracy to kill America's beloved 35th president.

The startling new evidence was uncovered by respected author Anthony Summers, who revealed the assassin's identity in an update to his classic 1998 book on Kennedy's slaying, "Not In Your Lifetime."

According to Summers, the second rifleman was Herminio Diaz, a hired killer who worked for notorious Mafia boss Santo Trafficante Jr. in Cuba. Diaz executed a Cuban police chief in the late 1940s and likely committed 20 murders in his lifetime.

"Lee Harvey Oswald did not act alone," Summers told The ENQUIRER.

"There was a conspiracy to kill President Kennedy, and the same people who hired Lee Harvey Oswald – whether it was the CIA, the Mafia or Cubans opposed to Fidel Castro – also hired Herminio Diaz."

Author
Anthony
Summers

DAZ ARRIVED IN THE U.S. IN MID-1963, according to CIA documents, just months before Kennedy was struck down in Dealey Plaza on Nov. 22 of that year.

"Diaz was a professional hit man with a record of political assassinations," Summers said.

"He'd also worked for Mafia chief Trafficante as security director of the Hotel Habana Riviera casino in Cuba.

"He was in the country at the right time and was involved in the anti-Castro movement. Many people in that movement thought President Kennedy had betrayed them during the CIA-sponsored Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961 and the Cuban Missile Crisis in 1962, and had come to kill him."

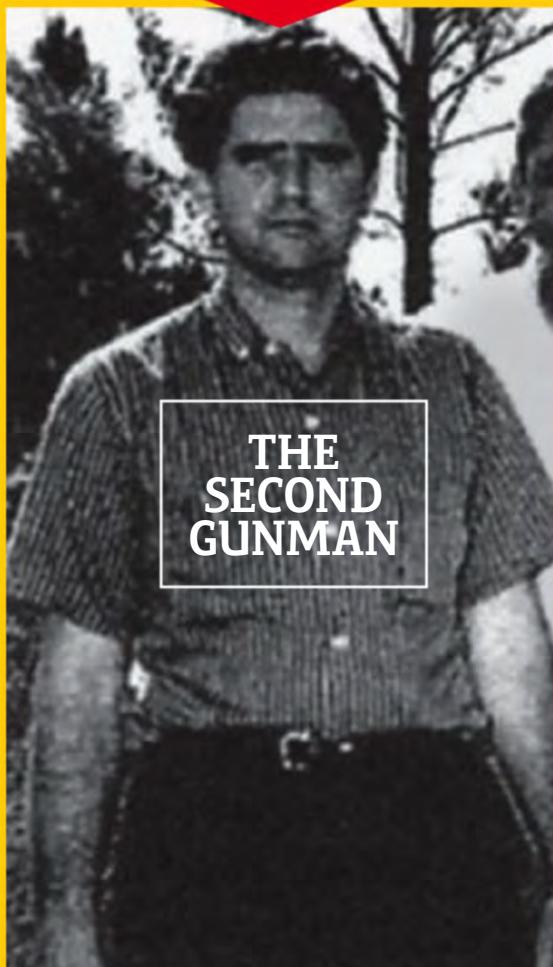

"Frankly, it all adds up."

According to Summers, Diaz revealed his role in the Kennedy assassination to a friend named Tony Cuesta. The two men were held in a Cuban prison after a failed anti-Castro raid in 1966 when Diaz spilled the details on the murder plot.

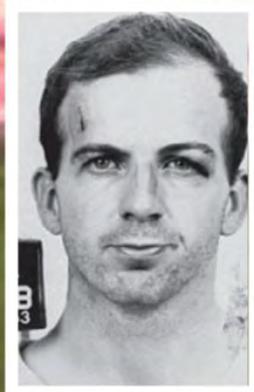

"Diaz and Cuesta talked on the boat while waiting to land in Cuba," Summers said.

GUNMAN

Experts say that while Lee Harvey Oswald (below) fired from the Texas School Book Depository, Diaz fired from the grassy knoll. The Zapruder film shows Kennedy reacting to being shot

"During their conversations, Diaz admitted to Cuesta that he'd taken part in Kennedy's death."

Diaz was killed in the raid. Afterward, a photo published in a Cuban Communist Party newspaper showed that he was carrying a valid Florida driver's license and a Social Security card which the CIA, by inference, had indeed been in the U.S.

His buddy Cuesta was badly injured in the raid, captured and jailed at Cuba's infamous La Cabana Prison. While being treated at the jail infirmary, Cuesta confided Diaz's assassination story to another anti-Castro inmate, Cuban Reinaldo Martinez.

JFK was assassinated in Dallas, Texas, in 1963

After his release from prison, Martinez fled to Miami, and in 2007 he contacted G. Robert Blakey, who'd served as chief counsel of the U.S. House Select Committee on Assassinations.

"Martinez thought he was about to die and wanted to set the record straight," Blakey told The ENQUIRER.

"After speaking with him, I believe he was telling the truth. It wasn't just Lee Harvey Oswald who killed Kennedy. It was a conspiracy, and Herminio Diaz was the second shooter."

Summers also interviewed Martinez for two days in Miami.

PROOF OF SECOND JFK SHOOTER

"Martinez had nothing to gain by telling his story, except for setting the record straight," Summers, who videotaped the interview, told THE ENQUIRER.

"He told me he was close to death and was telling the story because, 'It is the truth - my truth.'"

Kennedy's brutal slaughter stunned America and prompted his successor, President Lyndon B. Johnson, to order a thorough investigation of the tragedy. According to the official Warren Commission report on the assassination, Oswald acted alone in shooting Kennedy.

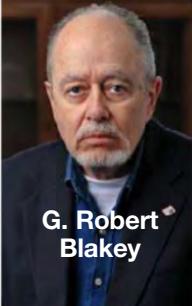

BUT IN THE FAMED ZAPRUDER FILM THAT SHOWS the presidential motorcade moving through Dealey Plaza, Kennedy is first hit from behind, where Oswald was located in the Texas School Book Depository.

After that, it appears that Kennedy was hit from the front at an angle which would indicate a shooter located on the "grassy knoll."

One expert who's convinced there was a second shooter is world famous medical examiner Cyril H. Wecht, who's spent decades studying the assassination.

"Based on the available medical, physical and photographic evidence, all of which I've examined multiple times, the assassination of President John F. Kennedy was carried out by two gunmen - not just Lee Harvey Oswald," Wecht told The

Ex-government official BREAKS HIS SILENCE

G. Robert Blakey

"This is a breakthrough of historical importance"

ENQUIRER. According to his analysis, Wecht says two gunmen fired four shots, and one assassin was situated at the front of the motorcade.

"Based on the initial backward trajectory of the president's head after being impacted by the gunshot blasts, I believe a shooter operated from the right front of the vehicle behind the picket fence on the grassy knoll," he said.

"Eyewitness accounts corroborate this." While the Warren Report discounted that scenario, multiple eyewitnesses told the same story to the congressional committee between 1977 and 1979, according to Blakey.

"At our hearings, there was lots of testimony that a shot was fired from the grassy knoll,"

Blakey, also author of the anti-mob RICO act and professor emeritus of law at Notre Dame, told THE ENQUIRER.

"I believe there were four shots. The first, second and fourth shots came from the Texas School Book Depository. The third shot came from the grassy knoll."

"The committee had everything but the names of the people involved in the conspiracy. Martinez's story has filled in the last pieces of the puzzle. There were two shooters."

According to both Summers and Blakey, Martinez approached the FBI to tell his story but was told that the assassination investigation was closed.

And Blakey called Summers' discovery of Diaz's role in the assassination a "breakthrough of historical importance."

"Summers' book deserves to be read and taken seriously by all those who care about truth or justice," he said.

Summers added: "I completely believe the stories told by Reinaldo Martinez and Tony Cuesta about Herminio Diaz's role in the assassination of President Kennedy."

"Fifty years after the fact, their information has blown the investigation into the Kennedy assassination wide open!"

JOEL OSTEEN ROCKED

— as teen daughter aims to be new Katy Perry

TELEVANGELIST Joel Osteen's teenage daughter is obsessed with sexy pop star Katy Perry — and a source says he's terrified it will lead to his girl rebelling against the church!

Texas-based Osteen's 14-year-old daughter Alexandra plays a central role in her dad's televised services, showcasing her singing talents on the coast-to-coast broadcasts.

BUT SHE'S SAID TO ADORE

Katy's songs and religiously follows her on Twitter, and now insiders fear that the teen will wind up just like the sexy songstress, who's also a preacher's daughter.

"The parallels between them are hard to ignore," a source told The ENQUIRER.

"Like Alexandra, Katy grew up in an extremely religious household and began as a gospel singer in her father's church. But when she decided on a music career, she completely rebelled."

As for Alexandra's parents, Joel, 50, and his 52-year-old wife Victoria — who have been married for 26 years — they don't want anyone shaking up their $40 million empire.

"Joel is worried that Alexandra's obsession with Katy's music could ruin his image and strain his family relations," said the source. "He also fears she'll try to follow in Katy's footsteps."

Katy released one Christian rock album before destroying her pious image with her scandalous debut single, "I Kissed a Girl." Once famous, she capitalized on her bombshell looks, appearing on the cover of "Maxim" magazine in lingerie and releasing a music video in which whipped cream shoots from her breasts. She also married and divorced British bad boy actor Russell Brand. Katy, who turns 29 this month, is now dating playboy rocker John Mayer.

During a sermon, Katy's disappointed dad reportedly blasted her as a "devil child."

"Katy has completely let her religious values fall by the wayside," said the source. "Joel is panicking that as Alexandra gets older, she could do the same."

LONGTIME pals Tim McGraw and Kenny Chesney are caught up in a bitter feud after Kenny tried to help Tim patch up his crumbling marriage to Faith Hill, say sources.

There's been tension between Tim and Kenny since the two hit the road together on their "Brothers of the Sun" tour last year. But the situation exploded in September when Faith asked Kenny to talk to Tim after her husband disrespected Problems in the McGraws' 17-year marriage burst into public view on Sept. 21 — Faith's 46th birthday — when Tim showed up at the iHeart Radio Music Festival in Las Vegas and paraded around the red carpet without his wedding ring.

Sources say Tim is ready to end the marriage, but Faith wants to make one last-ditch bid to save it and, desperate, she apparently turned to Kenny for help.

"SHE BEGGED KENNY TO TALK WITH

Tim and get him to stop humiliating her in public and start working on their marriage," said a source. "All of Kenny's instincts were telling him to stay out of it.

"He argued with Faith, telling her that he and Tim have not been close lately. But Faith has also been Kenny's friend for many years, and he could see she was frantic.

"He eventually caved and told her he'd speak with Tim."

But Tim exploded in rage when Kenny called, says the source.

"Tim screamed, 'Stay away from Faith and keep your nose out of my business!'

"Kenny was completely stunned. He was just trying to be a nice guy and do a favor for a friend whose marriage was in trouble, but Tim totally rejected him. Now Kenny doesn't want anything to do with Tim, and Tim is bad-mouthing Kenny all over Nashville."

It's a stunning reversal for their lengthy friendship, but insiders say trouble's been brewing for quite a while.

BOTH TIM, 46, AND KENNY, 45, are megastars of country music — both have sold millions of albums and scored dozens of Top 10 singles. Major evergreen has lagged lately, while Kenny's has soared.

"In the early days of Kenny's career, Tim was the bigger star," said the insider. "Today, Kenny is much bigger than Tim, and Tim is jealous."

"But Tim was a complete jerk on the tour.

"He insisted on parking his bus and crew away from everyone else. And even though he wasn't the headliner on the tour, he complained constantly because Kenny's name was always featured first on the tour posters.

"But the worst thing to Kenny was watching Tim mistreat the people on his tour. Tim constantly berated and yelled at his band members and production crew.

"That tour pretty much ended their friendship."

Meanwhile, Faith and Tim, who married in 1996 and have three daughters — Gracie, 16, Maggie, 15, and Audrey, 11 — are "fighting more than ever before" and often go days without speaking, said the source.

"When Faith approached Kenny to talk with Tim, Kenny knew it probably wouldn't work, but he felt sorry for Faith and made the call," the source said. "Now, their long-time friendship is history, and Tim is doing everything he can to bad-mouth Kenny."

"It's like Tim's trying to pick a fight, but Kenny isn't falling for it. He's just turned his back on Tim and walked away for good."

GAME of Thrones" actress Emilia Clarke faced a suffering a scary brain aneurysm, The ENQUIRER has learned exclusively.

After wrapping her role in Broadway's "Breakfast at Tiffany's" in late April, sources say 26-year-old Emilia was successfully treated at the New York Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center in Manhattan. An aneurysm is a weakness in the wall of an artery and can cause life-threatening problems if it bursts. Fortunately, Emilia has recovered from what turned out to be a small aneurysm.

"EVERYONE WAS SO SCARED for her," said a source. "She's so young, and nobody would have ever expected that she could be suffering from something so serious."

Additionally, Emilia's medical crisis could have potentially upended the hit HBO show. The gorgeous British actress plays show's central characters.

"Nobody wanted to imagine what would happen if she weren't ~~medical~~ ~~return~~ after the show," the source said. "The worst part is that all of the books (that the show is based on) aren't even written yet, so it would have thrown (author) George R.R. Martin a nasty curve as well."

Luckily, Emilia pulled through and is already back filming in Croatia.

"Game of Thrones" is based on the collection of the best-selling "A Song of Ice and Fire" books. According to the entertainment news

Vulture.com, the series enjoyed an average rating of 4.9 million viewers in Season 3, making it the most popular show on the network since "The Sopranos."

"Emilia is doing really well now and she should be OK moving forward," added the source. "No one really knows what caused the aneurysm. It seems like a fluke thing."

'SLEEPY HOLLOW' BEAUTY HOOKED ON WOMANIZING EX!

Nicole MISSING BADBOY MICHAEL

Nicole Beharie still carries a torch for Michael Fassbender

FOX's blockbuster new fantasy TV show "Sleepy Hollow" drew more than 13 million viewers for its premiere and has already been renewed for a second season – but beautiful star Nicole Beharie's joy is said to be muted because she's still pining for her skirt-chasing former beau, "X-Men" hunk Michael Fassbender.

FIVE-FOOT-ONE

Nicole, who plays gutsy cop Lt. Abbie Mills on the show, fell head over heels for the 6-foot womanizer Fassbender after they met in 2011 on the film "Shame." And she was said to be devastated when he dumped her.

But Nicole is getting moral support and advice on the set of her hit show, which is loosely based on the classic horror tale "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Her handsome co-star Tom Mison – who plays a time-traveling Ichabod Crane – is desher to forget Michael and find a new guy.

Olympian Louise Hazel is Fassbender's new galpal. At right, Tom Mison

ALTHOUGH NICOLE 28, still misses the 36-year-old German-born lady-slayer, who's now reportedly dating British Olympian Louise Hazel, "she's slowly but surely coming around," said the insider.

"She's thankful to have the series to keep her busy and good friends like Tom to keep her positive and grounded. Nicole is beautiful and will find the right guy soon enough."

Marie blasted dance partner Jonathan Roberts for not catching her when she fainted

MARIE OSMOND BURNS BRIDGES

Ballroom blitzkrieg ANGERS SHOW BOSSES

DON'T expect to see Marie Osmond returning to "Dancing with the Stars" anytime soon!

The beloved 54-year-old performer ripped into the popular ABC dance competition during a recent appearance on "The Wendy Williams Show" – blasting her dance partner, the host and even the show's staff.

The show should be called "Dancing with the Starved," fumed the singer, contending that it leads to extreme dieting.

MARIE ALSO OPENED FIRE ON HER dance partner Jonathan Roberts and co-host Tom Bergeron for letting her fall to the floor when she got dizzy and fainted during her 2007 appearance.

"Where was my partner and where was Tom?" she bristled.

As The ENQUIRER reported, Marie had gone on a crash diet to lose 30 pounds and was suffering from a dangerously low potassium level when she collapsed, although Marie claimed to Wendy that she experienced a lack of oxygen because she had practiced outside while wildfires were sweeping California.

Marie vented her feelings on Wendy Williams' show

Marie also made the point that "DWTS" is sexist, claiming women get the tough routines while males have it easy.

"The boys do nothing, the girls do all the dancing!" she said.

To support her claim, she noted that while she made it into the finals, her brother Donny won the coveted mirror ball trophy in 2009.

Marie has long had a simmering hatred for "DWTS," and Williams' show gave her the opportunity to vent, say sources.

"Marie felt bullied on 'Dancing with the Stars,'" disclosed an insider. "And she knows other contestants have gotten terrible treatment by pro dancers, judges and crew members."

While "DWTS" producers are reportedly outraged at her remarks, the insider said: "Marie doesn't care if she's burning bridges."

DRAMA AT 'DWTS'

of the show, Valerie and her partner, dance pro Tristan MacManus, got the boot.

"My knees are killing me," Valerie moaned afterward, lifting her gold lame gown to reveal two knees wrapped in heavy bandages.

WHILE VALERIE HAS BEEN

complaining about her knee problems, a source said: "It appears her situation is much more grave than her torn meniscus. Now her friends are worried that Valerie's health has taken a serious turn for the worse."

Valerie, 74, announced in March that she was battling a rare, deadly form of brain cancer and was given only months to live. Incredibly, her cancer seemed to be close to remission, prompting the actress – who shot to fame in the '70s on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" – to sign up for the celebrity dance competition.

After joining "DWTS," she declared that she didn't "have any symptoms" of the disease. But another source points out that being "symptom-free" is very different from being "cancer-free."

"She's far from being out of BRAVE Valerie Harper, who was diagnosed with terminal brain cancer, suffered a terrifying collapse just after her gut-wrenching elimination from "Dancing with the Stars" on Oct. 7.

Sources say the "Rhoda" star was so frail during her last performance on Season 17 of "DWTS" that she had to be helped in and out of her chair.

After privately admitting to the show's co-host, Tom Bergeron, that she "recently got some bad news again," friends are now worried the courageous TV legend's rare brain cancer symptoms have returned.

"Valerie left 'DWTS' in a very weakened state," disclosed a set insider. "When she tried to stand on her own, she collapsed right back down in her chair."

"It was a frightening reminder that, despite her brave and positive attitude, she is still fighting cancer."

Funnygirl's startling confession to Tom Bergeron

OUTSPOKEN "Dancing with the Stars" judge Len Goodman may soon be waltzing off the show, an insider says.

Producers may be looking to replace the 69-year-old dapper Brit with someone younger and hipper, the insider adds.

The ABC dance competition has been on TV for 17 seasons, but a steady ratings decline has prompted the network to reduce its airtime from two nights to one a week.

AND ON THE OCT. 7 EPISODE, former "DWTS" dance pro Julianne Hough, 25, tested the waters, sitting in for the veteran judge alongside Carrie Ann Inaba and Bruno Tonioli.

"Producers are trying out new options in hopes of improving viewership," revealed a set insider.

According to the insider, "DWTS" producers may be looking to "bring in someone fresh like Julianne. She's gorgeous, popular and has the experience."

"But since she's chasing a big movie career, the network execs are keeping their options open. Their goal is to find an entertainment personality between the ages of 21 and 40 who has great chemistry with the other judges."

Former dance pro Maksim Chmerkovskiy, 33, is also at the top of the list.

When asked recently if he'd like to return to the show as a judge, the hunky Ukrainian said: "Absolutely! I want it to have the ratings we used to have."

The official reason given for Goodman's Oct. 7 absence was that the woods," the source continued. "She's just trying to remain positive, hoping the cancer doesn't get worse."

Dr. Jerome Spunberg, a radiation oncologist from West Palm Beach, Fla., who has not treated Harper, told The ENQUIRER: "Valerie is an exceptional person and an inspiration to us all with the way she is handling her cancer diagnosis.

"Unfortunately, the prognosis or outcome of this rare form of cancer...is grim.

"I have yet to see a cancer patient with this disease survive, and I think even her own doctors are amazed at her resilience. Most patients suffer from dizziness, vision and balance problems, so her performance on 'DWTS' is impressive.

"But ultimately, this is a short-term remission. In my opinion, she should enjoy her life to the fullest right now."

But the show's brass are well aware that "American Idol" boosted its ratings once they brought in younger judges, including Nicki Minaj.

According to the source, if they ever were to decide to replace the legendary Len, "either Julianne or Maks would be a perfect replacement."

Lance Owens was a police officer in Newark, N.J.

REVEALED!

Queen Latifah's TORMENT OVER BROTHER'S DEATH!

WITH her new talk show flourishing, Queen Latifah is finally forgiving herself for the tragic death of her brother more than two decades ago.

In 1992, just as her career as a rapper was taking off, Latifah bought her beloved older brother, Lancelot, a motorcycle. But two months later, Lance, then 24, was killed in a horrific crash while riding it. And Latifah, now 43, struggled mightily for years over the grief and guilt.

Just two years apart, Latifah and Lance were so close that people often mistook them for twins.

"They thought alike, they had the same interests, and they were both Pisces," said Latifah's now-ailing mom Rita. "The three of us did everything as a family."

LANCE HAD BEEN A POLICE OFFICER in Newark, N.J., for about a year when his bighearted sister decided to make one of his wishes come true.

"Lance had always wanted a motorcycle, so Latifah bought him one for his birthday," said a source. "Lance was thrilled."

But after he died, Latifah blamed herself, and her life spiraled out of control.

"She felt that if she hadn't given him the bike, he'd still be here," said the source. "She couldn't eat and she couldn't sleep for months. She eventually turned to drugs and alcohol for comfort."

Latifah's mom, Rita

In 1996, Latifah, whose real name is Dana Owens, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and a loaded handgun. In 2002, she was busted for DUI and was given three years' probation after she pleaded no contest to misdemeanor reckless driving.

A few years ago, Latifah started going to therapy and learned that it was important to "love and forgive herself, the way she loved and forgave others," said the source. "And she was finally able to let go of her guilt."

Now, she's riding high with "The Queen Latifah Show," which premiered on Sept. 16 and has already topped talk-show competitors Ellen DeGeneres and Bethenny Frankel in the ratings.

As The ENQUIRER recently reported, she has new heartache over her beloved 64-year-old mom's battle against deadly lung cancer. Despite that, the source said: "Latifah is finally feeling at peace about Lance."

AFTER EIGHT SEASONS, IT SEEMS many viewers are no longer interested in keeping up with the sleazy, self-indulgent clan. The show took a dramatic ratings nosedive in late September with its lowest numbers ever – 1.79 million viewers compared to its 2.5 million average.

That's a monumental slip from the 4.1 million viewers who caught Kim's marriage to pro basketball player Kris Humphries in August 2011. Even though "momager" Kris negotiated a $40 million contract to keep the show on the air until 2015, the network can pull the plug if it fails to perform.

And Henson offers reasons why Americans are turning away from the Kardashians in droves.

"With the exception of Bruce Jenner, these are not people who are famous for anything important or substantial," she explained. "They're not great actors or musicians or singers. They're famous because one of them put out a sex tape."

"In light of the success of shows like 'Duck Dynasty,' you can see that there are so many better ways to do reality television."

According to Q Scores, a measure of celebrities' popularity often used by marketers, Kris and Kim's "likability" have both nosedived by 50 percent in the past two years.

The Kardashians' plummeting popularity is reflected at cash registers across the country.

Just three years ago, according to the "Hollywood Reporter," they made $65 million – more than the estimated earnings of Angelina Jolie, Sandra Bullock and Tom Cruise combined!

BRAD PITT is in a jealous rage over Angelina Jolie wooing a sexy Japanese rock star to play the villain in her new film – because the tattooed music man looks a LOT like Angie's former lesbian lover!

A source told The ENQUIRER that despite having little or no acting experience, Angelina, 38, cast Japanese rocker Miyavi – whose real name is Takamasa Ishihara – to play the choice role of ruthless, sadistic prison guard Mutsuhiro Watanabe in “Unbroken,” which she’s filming in Australia.

Watanabe is known as “The Bird” and made life a living hell for Louis Zamperini, the real-life Olympic athlete-turned-POW who’s the hero of Angie’s film.

Miyavi, 32, flew to Australia to meet with Angie from Oct. 8 to 10, sources told The ENQUIRER. Meanwhile, Brad, 49, was in England making the WWII film “Fury” and taking care of the couple’s 5-year-old twins, Knox and Vivienne.

“Angelina was absolutely hypnotized by Miyavi’s haunting audition for her film,” said a source, adding that she couldn’t stop talking about the gender-bending rocker, who loves to wear makeup.

“Miyavi bears a striking resemblance to Angie’s former lesbian lover Jenny Shimizu – and that fact wasn’t lost on Brad,” noted the source.

Angelina hooked up with Shimizu, a Calvin Klein model, in 1996, gushing that she “fell in love with her the first second I saw her.” And in 2005,

MEGABUCK$ EMPIRE FALLING APART

It seems viewers are no longer interested in keeping up with the self-indulgent clan credit cards, a best-selling fragrance and tanning and skin-care products.

Now, one recent shocking report claims the family is practically going broke!

“After taxes they are only bringing in $22 million,” said an insider about their $40 million deal with E! to produce three more seasons of “Keeping Up with the Kardashians,” “and that has to be split between all the family members, lawyers and agents.”

Meanwhile, a number of their brands have run into trouble.

Earlier this year, the sisters were forced to rename their Khroma makeup line after a judge hit them with an injunction in a trademark lawsuit filed by the creator of Florida-based Kroma Makeup, who had sought $10 million in damages.

Last year the sisters were slapped with a $5 million lawsuit for “unsubstantiated, false and misleading claims” in ads, interviews and tweets about the effectiveness of the Kardashian-endorsed diet-product QuickTrim.

The plaintiffs alleged that QuickTrim’s main active ingredient was caffeine and stated that the FDA has determined that caffeine is not safe or effective for weight control. A settlement was reached earlier this year to compensate purchasers.

In 2010, the sisters got embroiled in another fiasco after endorsing a prepaid debit card that the Connecticut Attorney General determined had “predatory” fees. After the Kardashians terminated the card deal, the card company sued them for $75 million.

“The Kardashian motto seems to be another day, another lawsuit,” said an insider.

Some retailers also appear to be sharing the family’s grief – including Sears. The industry giant is selling new Kardashian Kollection items at a whopping 40 to 50 percent discount.

“If Bruce and Kris’ split leads to the demise of the Kardashian empire,” said Henson, “it would be a welcome development to many people.”

BUSTED!

AT TIFFANY'S

INGRID LEDERHASS-OKUN had a lifestyle most people only dream about, including a $3.1 million home in Connecticut and a high-paying job at the famous New York jeweler Tiffany's.

But it wasn't enough.

Authorities say that over a two-year period, the 46-year-old stole $2.1 million in jewelry from the posh retailer.

"This was a woman who seemingly had it all – a great job, a beautiful home, mixing with the rich and famous...but she wanted more, more, more," a law enforcement source told The ENQUIRER. "Greed knows no bounds."

Ingrid worked at Tiffany's for 22 years, rising to the position of vice president of product development. Part of her job was to bring the pricey baubles to manufacturers so they could determine production costs.

But in February, she was let go when the company began downsizing.

AUTHORITIES SAY THAT AFTER

she left, company officials discovered she had checked out, but never returned, 164 items, including diamond bracelets, earrings, rings and gold pendants.

When company officials asked Ingrid about the missing jewelry, she tried to cover her tracks by saying they were either still in the store or had been lost. Not satisfied with her explanation, the authorities were called in.

The FBI dubbed the case "Operation: Breakfast at Tiffany's" after the famous 1961 movie starring Audrey Hepburn. Their investigation revealed that Ingrid had sold some of the missing jewelry to an international dealer for $1.3 million. Between January 2011 and February 2013, the dealer wrote her 75 checks ranging from $7,525 to $47,000.

AUTHORITIES SAID

Ingrid only took jewelry worth less than $10,000 because she knew that the company conducted a daily inventory of items valued at more than $25,000.

On July 2, FBI agents arrested Ingrid at her upscale home in Darien, Conn., where she lived with her husband, Robert, a hedge-fund manager. On July 26, she appeared in court and pledged guilty to a charge of interstate transportation of stolen property.

"I knew it was illegal to steal, and I did so regardless. I'm very sorry," she said.

Ingrid has been ordered to pay $2.1 million in restitution and faces up to 10 years in jail.

"Diamonds are forever, but stolen diamonds are not," said Preet Bharara, the U.S. Attorney for the southern district of New York. "She looted her employer's jewelry inventory in order to enrich herself. She went from a vice president of a high-end jewelry company to jewel thief."

"Her arrest shows that no matter how privileged their position in a company, employees who steal will face the full consequences of the law."

DONALD TRUMP has endured a blistering attack from New York Attorney General Eric Schneiderman — but The ENQUIRER can reveal that the state's top lawyer has been blasted for his questionable ethics.

Schneiderman is suing the billionaire real estate mogul for more than $40 million, claiming that his Trump University, a development program for student entrepreneurs, was "engaging in persistent fraudulent, illegal and deceptive conduct."

But he shouldn't be so quick to point the finger!

As one publication recently asked after taking a long look at Schneiderman's activities: "Is Eric Schneiderman a crook?"

The divorced 58-year-old has been put under the microscope for his fundraising methods and special treatment for his top donors, including the plaintiff's lawyers who generously support him.

ON OCT. 6, THE "NEW YORK Post" reported that the attorney general is delaying an $11 billion settlement with megabank J.P. Morgan because he wants to "open the door for private lawsuits from some of his political contributors."

Schneiderman is requesting that the bank admit wrongdoing before settling, which would pave the way for his donors in top law firms to make big bucks on further cases. And the "Wall Street Journal" noted that one of the law firms that would benefit donated more than $65,000 to Schneiderman's campaign, and a former partner at the firm donated another $15,000 after one of his most vocal critics.

Trump's executive vice president and special counsel, Michael Cohen, insists Schneiderman's lawsuit is nothing more than a setup by the publicity-hungry attorney general.

"The taxpayers should be livid over this waste of their dollars," he told The ENQUIRER. "The case has no merit whatsoever. In fact, Trump University has a 98 percent approval rating."

Furthermore, political expert

KELLY CLARKSON PREGNANCY SURPRISE

Kelly and Brandon Blackstock have been dating since last year

KELLY CLARKSON has long said she couldn't wait to start a family – and it looks like she didn't even wait for her wedding to get pregnant!

As this ENQUIRER picture shows, the first "American Idol" champ seemed to be sporting a noticeable baby bump while performing in New York City on Oct. 10.

"SHE SAID SHE WANTED BABIES RIGHT away after getting married, and it looks like she jumped the gun," noted an insider. "She's already picking out names."

The Grammy-winning singer is set to wed beau Brandon Blackstock at the end of the month. He's the 36-year-old son of Kelly's longtime manager Narvel Blackstock and stepson of country legend Reba McEntire. The two have been dating since last year, and Kelly has already shot down rumors she was pregnant once. That happened in August after she mentioned her plans to elope instead of having a traditional wedding.

Meanwhile, Kelly, 31, has been living with Brandon and his two children from a previous marriage, and she said in a recent interview: "I can't wait to start to have babies with him."

While Kelly has already picked out two possible names for a boy and two for a girl, she predicted: "I'm totally gonna have a girl. I know it in my soul."

She's even watching what she eats, saying: "I want to do the best I can for that kid...right off the bat."

If you want to be the first to know the latest news on the hottest stars – including Jennifer Aniston and Kris and Bruce Jenner – all you need to do is read The ENQUIRER.

Earlier this month, "In Touch" magazine plastered a photo of Jennifer Aniston and her 24-year-old half brother Alex on the cover with the headline "Jen's secret brother surfaces. Who knew?"

Well, ENQUIRER readers knew – because we had a cover story about the heavily tattooed and pierced hippy who lives in his van way back in September!

WHAT'S MORE, THE ENQUIRER PUBLISHED photos of Alex at the drug- and booze-soaked Burning Man festival in the Nevada desert, including partying with a naked man.

Meanwhile, other publications recently reported that Bruce Jenner was spending a lot of time with his ex-wife, Linda Thompson – Elvis Presley's former lover – leading up to his split with Kris. But earlier, The ENQUIRER revealed that Bruce had been getting cozy with Linda – the mother of his sons Brandon, 32, and Brody, 30. We also revealed that Kris flew into a jealous rage over it and the couple's huge argument helped to doom their marriage.

It just goes to show that The ENQUIRER gets the big stories first and fast – and with all the sizzling details you want to read.

★ In a pioneering advance, U.S. scientists were able to erase human brain tumor cells in mice.

For the study, human brain tumor cells were implanted into lab mice – then they were injected with 5-azacytidine, an FDA-approved drug used to treat blood disorders.

The tumors rapidly decreased and finally disappeared, even weeks after stopping the therapy.

Johns Hopkins researchers plan to progress to a human clinical trial.

POTENTIAL BRAIN CANCER breakthrough

VITAMIN D AND BONE HEALTH

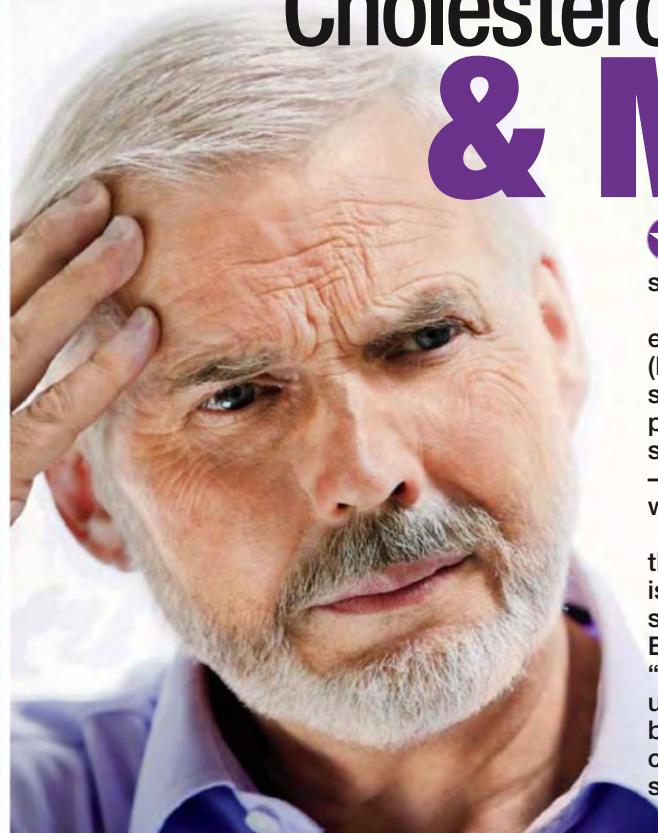

★ For women with normal vitamin D levels, there may be no bone health benefit in taking vitamin D supplements, a new study suggests.

Scientists enlisted 120 postmenopausal healthy women for their study and found that while calcium supplements improved bone health, vitamin D had no added effect.

Experts advise consulting your physician before adding supplements to your diet.

Cholesterol-fighting drugs & MEMORY

★ Some commonly prescribed statins used to lower cholesterol may affect memory, suggests new research.

Working with rodents, researchers tested the effects of pravastatin (Pravachol) and atorvastatin (Lipitor) for memory and learning skills. Results showed that when taking pravastatin, rat performance was impaired for simple learning and recognition – however, no adverse effects were found with atorvastatin.

"What is most interesting is that (memory deterioration) is not a feature of all statins," says Professor Neil Marrion of England's University of Bristol. "However, in order to better understand the relationship between statin treatment and cognitive function, further studies are needed."

★ Women who have the fat or obesity gene are far more likely to suffer a hip fracture, according to a new study.

Australian researchers examined DNA of 934 women and discovered a genetic link to hip fractures.

"We found that for a woman of the same age and same clinical risk factors, those with (a genetic predisposition to weight gain) have an increased risk of fracture of 82 percent – a very high effect in genetic terms," declares Professor Tuan Nguyen of Sydney's Garvan Institute of Medical Research.

If further studies support the conclusion, experts say better drug therapies can be developed.

★ A new weight-loss supplement not only helps you to shed body fat but also gives you an energy boost!

Zantrex-3 High Energy Fat Burner is formulated with a clinically tested ingredient that encourages lipolysis, the release of fat from cells, according to the manufacturers. The result, they add, is that you lose body fat, not just weight. Due to the capsule's extremely potent xanthine complex, it is not intended for people who are sensitive to stimulants, such as caffeine.

Recommended dosage is four capsules a day. Zantrex-3 is available at Walmart, $19.99 for 24-count bottle and $39.99 for 56-count.

FAMOUS QUOTES FROM YOUR FAVORITE PEOPLE

Cryptograms are coded messages. To solve the Cryptogram, each coded letter must be replaced by the answer letter in the box overhead. When you solve the code for a letter, write the answer letter in the box everywhere the coded letter appears. Look for common words and letter patterns to break the code. Words like AND, I, THE and A are found frequently. Common word endings are ING, S and E.

BEST BETS ON TV

What's hot
this week

The Pete Holmes Show (New Show!)

Monday, Oct. 28, midnight ET, TBS

The latest and best thing in late night, "The Pete Holmes Show," really should have arrived earlier. That's because, aside from Craig Ferguson, Holmes is the freshest, funniest and most talented comedian on late-night TV and boy, do we need him! Naturally humorous without even trying – something Conan has never really grasped – Holmes takes command of the stage like a longtime veteran. With hilarious movie takeoffs, special guest stars doing things they'd never do anywhere else and more surprises than even Jimmy Kimmel can dream up, this late night everyman will make you laugh out loud every time.

Ghost Adventures (Two-Hour Special Halloween Episode)

Thursday, Oct. 31, 9 p.m. ET,
Travel Channel

All dressed up with no place to go this Halloween night? Well, how about a trip to Dracula's castle in Transylvania courtesy of ghost adventurers Zak Bagans, Nick Groff and Aaron Goodwin. The intrepid trio traverse the land of myths and monsters to explore the truth behind Vlad the Impaler, the inspiration for Bram Stoker's "Dracula." Vlad ruled the Romanian province centuries ago and impaled thousands of people. The two-hour Transylvanian tour not only explores some of the world's most frightening a spooky forest known as the "Bermuda Triangle of Romania" in this chilling episode of TV's most terrifying travelogue series.

The Preacher's Mistress (Made-for-TV Movie Premiere)

Saturday, Nov. 2, 8 p.m. ET, Lifetime

Gwen Griffith (Sarah Lancaster) is a hard-working single mom struggling to make ends meet while taking online classes to get a better job. Gwen thinks she has no time to find her Mr. Right until she runs into a handsome and charming man while jogging. But her "happily ever after" goes to hell when she discovers that not only is her new beau, Ed Baker (Drew Waters), married, he's also the preacher of a popular church. And when Ed's heiress wife is murdered, Gwen finds herself in the middle of a police investigation with no one to trust in this "Thou shall not commit adultery" cautionary tale.

It Takes a Choir (New Show!)

Friday, Nov. 1, 10 p.m. ET, USA Network

Meet the Jamie Oliver of choir music, Gareth Malone – a dapper British choirmaster from across the pond. And just like Jamie brought his healthy cooking style to America, Gareth hopes to unite an unlikely mix of characters across the U.S. through music. Tonight, Army wives call on Gareth to help empower their husbands in reserve at Fort Riley, Kan., and help their "silent ranks" be heard. Gareth has but to make these soldiers feel proud by creating a choir just for them. It all ends with a blockbuster public performance in front of their

Michael J. Fox WIFE ON WARPATH

Maria Schrader, Walter White's kooky sister-in-law in "Breaking Bad," is happily married to her college sweetheart, Grady Olsen. But that doesn't seem to matter to Tracy.

"It's really not Betsy's fault that Tracy is jealous," continued the source. "Betsy is just naturally bubbly and friendly, but Tracy thinks she's just a feely."

The situation came to a head recently when Tracy, 53, guest-starred on the show and took issue with the number of times Betsy stopped to see Michael.

"Either you tell her to back off or I will!" Tracy threatened, according to the source.

Now Michael is apparently avoiding Betsy like the plague.

"Michael really likes Betsy but just wants everyone to get along," the source added. "And the last thing he wants is trouble at home with Tracy."

MICHAEL J. FOX's real-life wife Tracy Pollan can't stand his new TV spouse – and she's warning her husband to keep his distance.

Betsy Brandt was handpicked by Michael to appear as his other half on "The Michael J. Fox Show," but her endless fawning over the TV legend has Tracy seeing red, a show insider told the ENQUIRER.

"BETSY TELLS ANYONE who'll listen what a wonderful guy Michael is and how playing his wife is a dream come true," the source said. "She constantly gushes over how funny and handsome he is."

The former "Family Ties" star, 52, incorporated his battle with Parkinson's disease into the new sitcom. He stars as Mike Henry, a newscaster who returns to the business after taking a five-year health-related hiatus. Betsy plays his wife, Annie.

Blind builder

Thomas Graham, you are my new hero (Blind Man Builds His Own Home!, Sept. 23). I don't know how you do it. A lot of people are afraid to even climb a ladder, let alone not be able to see where they're going. I bet your family is very proud of you. Keep up the good work, Thomas!

Ungrateful autograph hound

I was appalled to read about Sarah Jessica Parker and Matthew Broderick's crazy autograph seeker in Gossip with Mike Walker (Sept. 23). The five (!) autographs he got didn't please him, so he became verbally abusive toward Sarah. I hope he runs across Alec Baldwin next time!

HOW TO PLAY

You must fill in every empty square in the Sudoku grid. There's no right way of going about this, but there is only ever one solution. The big grid is split into nine mini-grids. There are nine rows running left to right and nine columns running down. In every row, you must have each of the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. These can be in any order. The same applies to columns and mini-grids: place every number 1 through 9 in each column and in each mini-grid.

TORN apart by family tragedy and depression, "Pee-wee's Big Adventure" co-star E.G. Daily is finally back on her feet and getting a shot at singing stardom on "The Voice."

In late September, the 52-year-old sang her heart out with a spectacular rendition of Faith Hill's "Breathe," and Blake Shelton welcomed her to his team.

is a dark secret.

In May 2003, the single mother of two daughters was living in Los Angeles with former "Party of Five" star Scott Bairstow when he was busted on

The petite actress once dated Brad Pitt

The "Django Unchained" filmmaker thinks he can take Christina to the next level, said a source

QUENTIN'S 'DIRRTY' LITTLE CRUSH

SLIMMED-down Christina Aguilera looks sexier than ever since returning to "The Voice" – and she's got offbeat "Pulp Fiction" director Quentin Tarantino hot on her tail. Insiders say Quentin is pursuing the "Dirrty" singer for a role in one of his gritty movies – but they say he may also be looking for more. And while the thought of furthering her acting career excites the platinum-blonde songbird, she doesn't want to give the 50-year-old bachelor the wrong idea.

"Quentin's been hitting Christina up with emails, scripts for movies and even letters," said a source. "He has it in his head that he can take her to the next level. And when he wants something, he usually gets it."

DARK PAST HAUNTING PEE-WEE'S GIRL

The former child star belts out a tune on the hit NBC show child rape charges. "The ordeal really rattled E.G. and her family," a close source told The ENQUIRER.

Prosecutors said that Bairstow, who played Ned on the hit TV show, allegedly became intimate with a schoolgirl when she was just 12 and got caught in a police sting operation.

The ENQUIRER learned that the encounters had a devastating impact on the youngster, who began mutilating herself and was put under

Scott Bairstow

E.G. Daily with Paul Reubens in "Pee-wee's Big Adventure"

Now she's hoping 'Voice' WILL GIVE HER FRESH START

In an astonishingly frank interview following the bust, E.G. told The ENQUIRER: "I had no idea this was going on...and I am shocked! It is frightening and disturbing.

"I was concerned, of course, but I had my kids all checked out and they are fine. Scott never touched my children."

Bairstow could have been slammed with a seven-year prison sentence but he struck a plea bargain to a lesser assault charge and ended up with a slap-on-the-wrist sentence of just four months.

Sadly, soon after E.G.'s emotional wounds began to heal, she was hit by another setback – falling into a depression over the way aging actresses are mistreated by Hollywood.

"I went through a really dark, dark time," admits E.G., who once dated Brad Pitt, and is happily in a relationship with writer Jameson Hesse.

And she's delighted to be on "The Voice," saying: "I feel like I've already won."

DIRECTOR OBSESSED with Christina Aguilera
- source

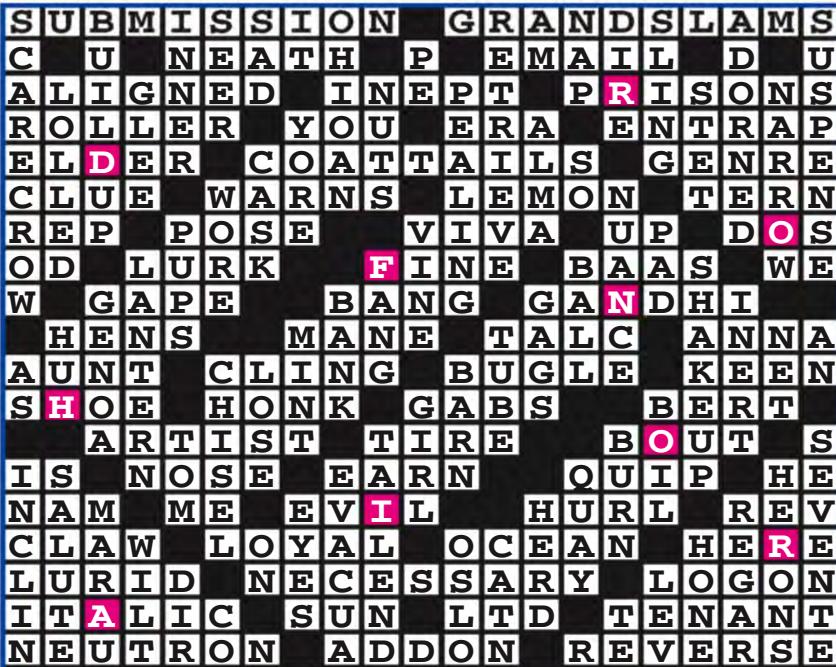

But Christina, 32, has been dating production assistant Matthew Rutler, 28, for almost three years and has no intention of kicking her beau to the curb.

"To tell the truth," said the source, "Quentin's creeping Christina out a little."

"SHE DOESN'T WANT TO OFFEND HIM, and she's open to more acting opportunities, but it's obvious he has a huge crush on her. I'm sure she'll listen to his offers because she's still very interested in advancing her acting career, and Quentin's too powerful to ignore.

"But if he thinks she's interested in dating him, he's in for a rude awaken-

Acts of kindness

All across the country, every day, good people perform acts of kindness for strangers. Only rarely do they receive recognition for their selfless work. In our ongoing series, The ENQUIRER will put the spotlight on those who care enough to make life better for those around them.

HAPPY Flower Day!"

With those words and a carload of flowers, Patricia Gallagher is bringing untold joy to those who need it most by delivering bouquets to nursing home residents, homeless people, recovery homes, cancer support groups and ailing shut-ins.

The small act of kindness, she says, has warmed countless hearts – including her own – since she started making her special deliveries.

"I'm addicted to the happiness I feel when I give the bouquets away," the 62-year-old author told The ENQUIRER. "I've watched lots of wrinkled hands entwined around the flowers – smelling them, touching them, admiring them and holding them close to their hearts.

"IT HAS OPENED UP A WHOLE NEW joyous world of giving for me."

Since May 17, Patricia, who's known as "The Flower Lady," has delivered more than 4,200 bundles of blooms to more than 65 nursing homes near her home in North Wales, Pa., outside Philadelphia.

Fortunately, Patricia was able to strike up a deal with some of the Trader Joe's stores in her area. The flowers she gets from them are still fresh but have to be tossed to make room for the next day's deliveries. So the folks at the specialty supermarket give them to Patricia for free.

Patricia's act of kindness took root while she was giving a lecture on her book, "No More Secrets – A Family Speaks About Depression, Anxiety and Attempted Suicide." The book was a response to her husband John jumping out of a third story hospital window while being treated for depression. Luckily, he survived.

Later, a member of her church approached her and suggested she put the traumatic incident behind her.

If you know of someone who deserves to be honored for acts of kindness, please let us know by emailing us at: letters@nationalenquirer.com. Or write to us at: Acts of Kindness, National Enquirer, 1000 American Media Way, Boca Raton, FL 33464-1000. We'll pay you $250 if we use your submission.

"She was right," Patricia said. "I started praying to God to give me something joyful and positive to talk about – and to be happy about.

"Now I walk into a nursing home and say with a big smile, 'Happy Flower Day! The Flower Lady is here!'

"When one of the patients says the flowers are beautiful, I say, 'They're beautiful just like you, inside and out. You look like Miss America!'"

Patricia has now expanded her good deed to the Internet with her website, happyflowerday.com. And she now delivers so many flowers she can't fit them all into her car at once and has to make several trips a day. It's a lot of work, but she insists it's worth it.

"The smiles and happiness just fill my soul and spirit," she said.

"These are people who have lost so much...their homes, their cars, their friends, their pets, sometimes even their families. To bring a little bit of joy and delight into their lives is worth every bit of work involved.

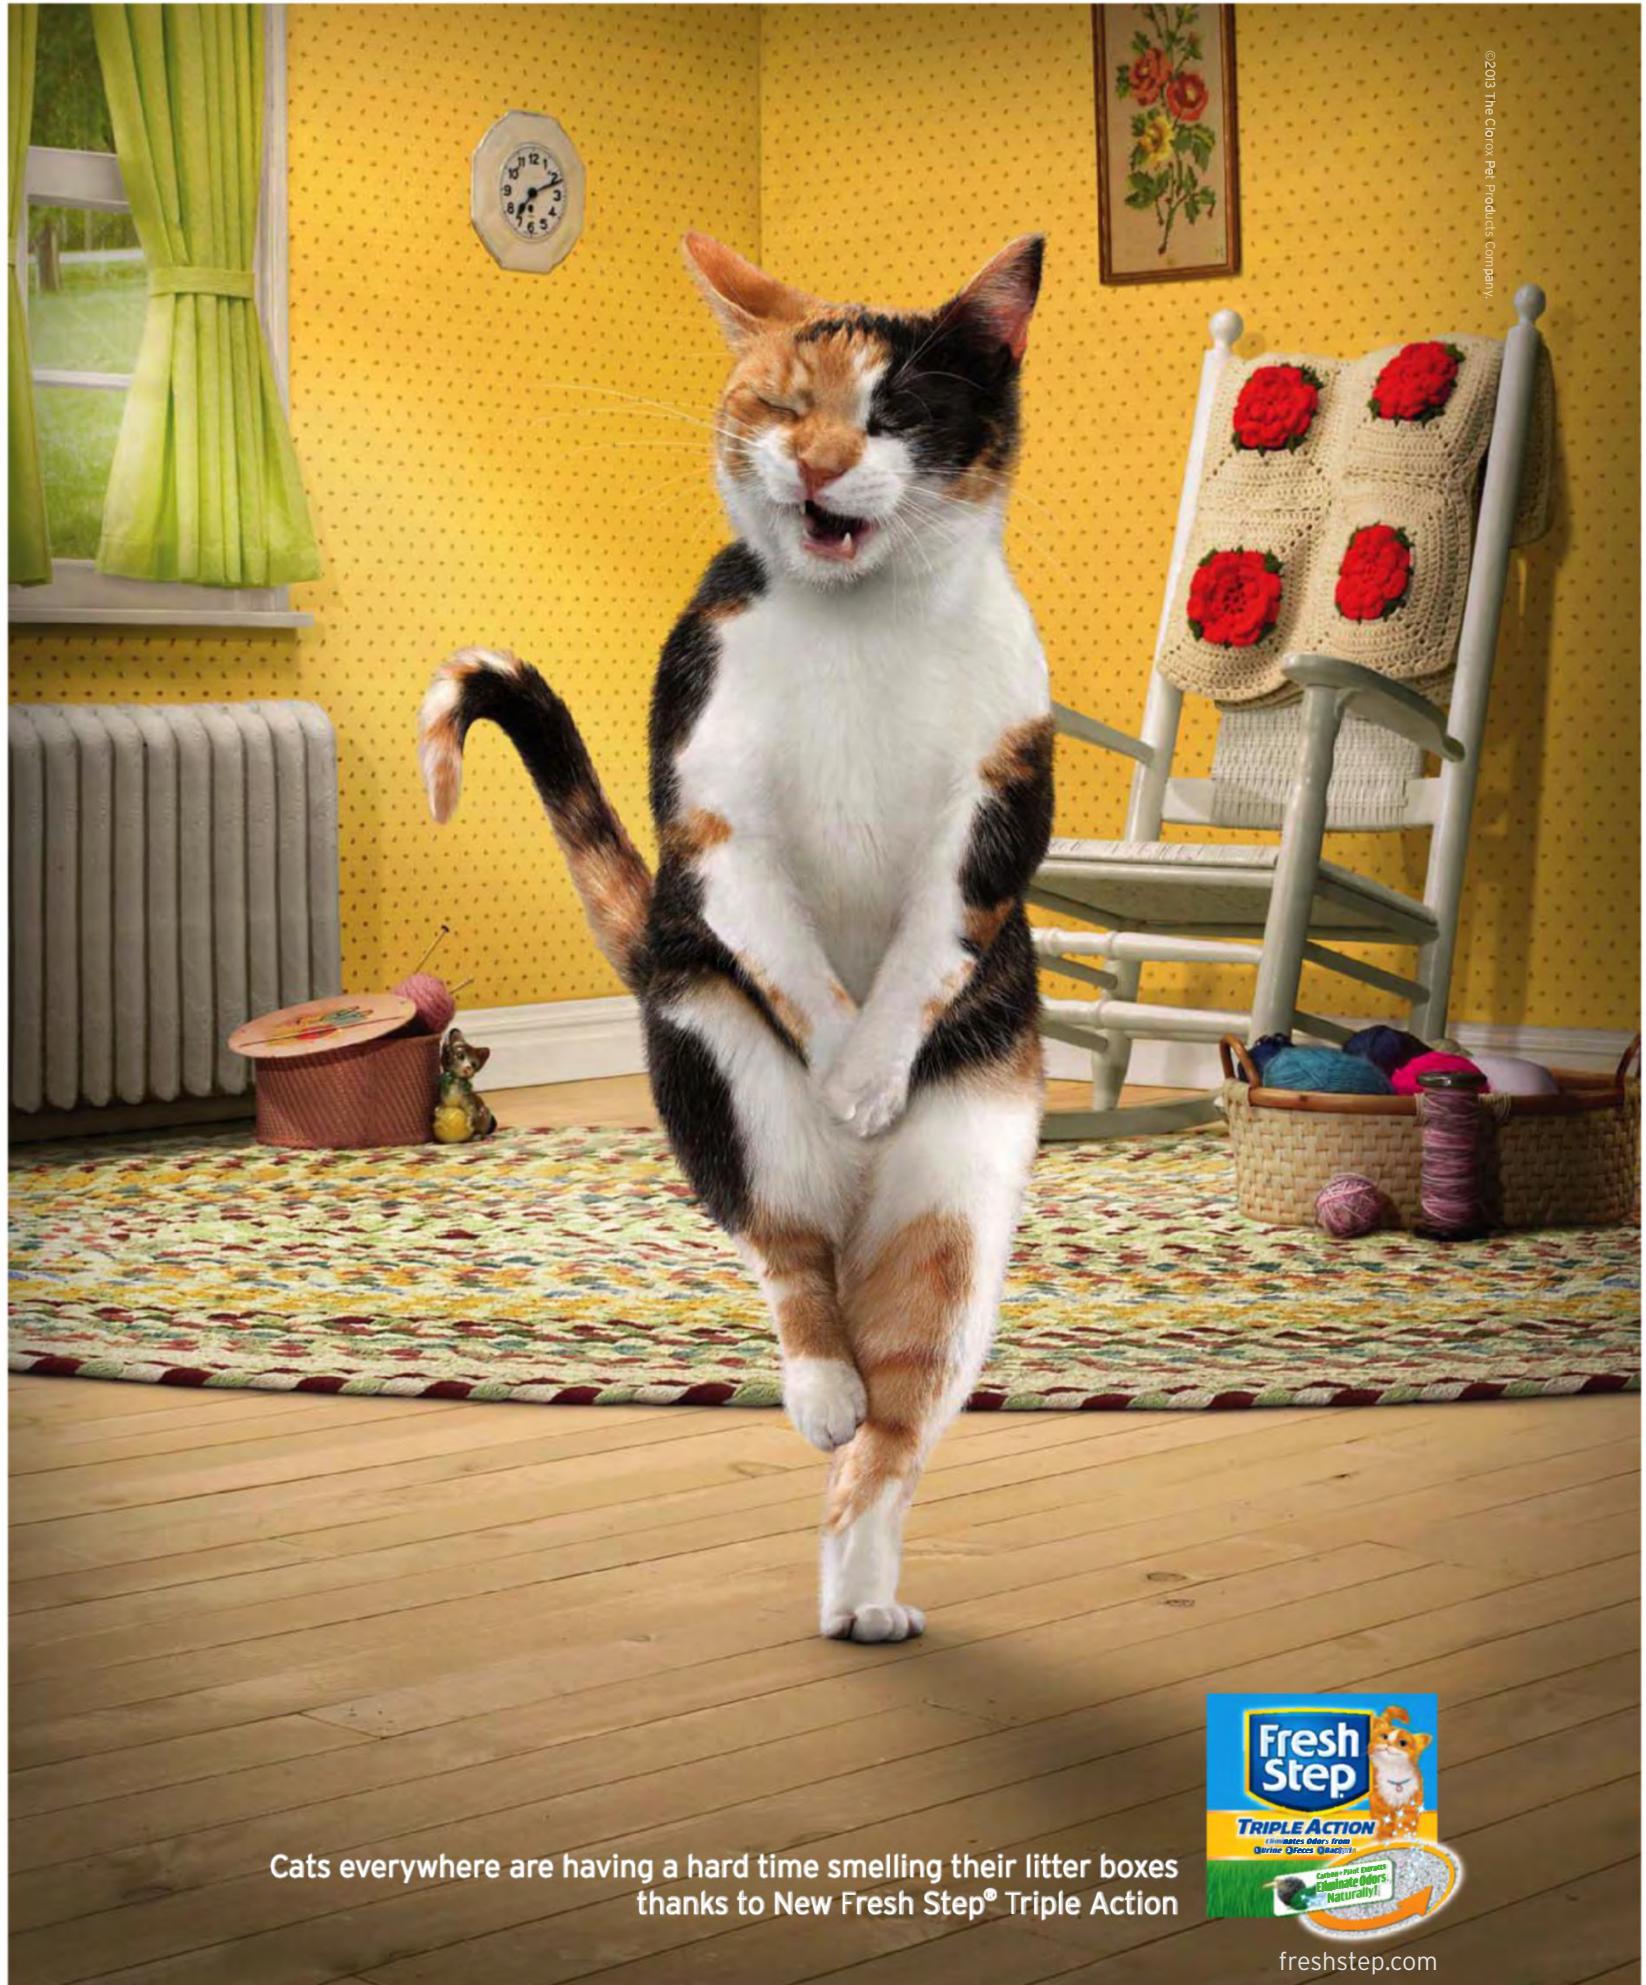

"And it gives me a reason to dress up, put on makeup and feel good about myself."

"It has become a full-time job, but it's a job I really love doing. I wouldn't change it for the world."
